Weakness, Loss of Organic Powers, Pains in the Loins, Disease of the Kidneys, Affections of the Head, Throat, Nose and Skin, Constitutional Debility, and all those horriz affections arising from a Certain Secret Habit of Youth, that solitary practice, more fatal to its victims than the song of the Syrens to the mariners of Ulysses—blighting their most brilliant hopes or anticipations, rendering Marriage, etc., impossible.

Solidary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to eastery the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

MARRIAGE.

Married persons, or those contemplating marriage, being aware of physical weakness, should immediately consult Dr. J., and be restored to perfect health.

Office, No. 7 South Frederick street, Baltimore, Maryland, on the left hand side, going from Baltimore street, seven doors from the corner. Be particular in observing the name and number, or you will mistake the place.

DR. JOHNSTON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were over known. Many troubled with ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by private and improper indulgences, that secret and solitary abit, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for inther heritages or sected.

habit, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business or society.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz. Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Slight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Kervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption. &c., &c.

Mentally.—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion of Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

Weakness of the system, Nervous Debility and premature decay generally arise from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice so fatal to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are most apt to become its Victims, from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parents and Guardians are often misled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sons and wards. Alas! how often do they ascribe to other causes the wasting of the frame, Papitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, derangement of the Nervous System, Cough, and Symptoms of Consumption; also those serious Mental effects, such as loss of Memory, Depression of Spirits, or peculiar fits of Melancholy, when the truth is, they have been caused by indulging in Pernicious but alluring practices, destructive to both Body and Mind. Thus are swept from existence thousands who might have been of use to their Country, a pleasure to their friends, and ornaments to Society. NERVOUS DEBILITY.

R. JOHNSTON'S INVIGORATING REMEDY FOR ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

This grand and important Remedy has restored strength and vigor to thousands of the most debilitated individuals, many who had lost all hopes, and been abandoned to die. By its complete invigoration of the Nervous System, the whole faculties become restored to their proper power and functions, and the fallen fabric of life is raised up to beauty, consistency and duration, upon the ruins of an emaciated and premature decline, to sound and pristine health. Oh, how happy have hundreds of misguided youths been made, who have been suddenly restored to health from the devastations of those terrific maladies which result from indiscretion! Such persons, before contemplating should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most negative for the state of the state o

MARRIAGE, should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without this, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect herarly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the meiancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own. Let no false delicacy prevent you, but apply immediately.

He who places himself under the care of Dr. Johnston may religiously confide in his honor as a Gentleman, and

TO STRANGERS.

The many thousands cured at this institution within the last ten years, and the numerous important Surgical Operations performed by Dr. J., witnessed by the Reporters of the papers and many other persons, notices of which have appeared again and again before the public, is a sufficient guaranty that the afflicted will find a skilful and honorable physician.

TAKE NOTICE. It is with the greatest reluctance that Dr. Johnston permits his card to appear before the public, deeming it unprofessional for a physician to advertise; but unless he did so, the afflicted, especially strangers, could not fail to fall into the hands of those imprudent, boasting impostors—individuals destitute of knowledge, name, and character—bediars. shoemakers, mechanics, &c., advertising themselves as phy sloemakers, mechanics, ac., auterusing themselves as physicians; ignorant quacks, who keep you triffing month after month, as long as possible, and in despair leave you with ruined health to sigh over your galling disappointment. It is this motive alone that induces Dr. J. to advertise, for he alone can cure you. To those unacquainted with his reputation the deems it necessary to say, that his credentials or diplomas always hang in his Office.

Weakness of the Organs immediately cured, and full vigor restored.

A. ZAPPONE, Teacher of French, Spanish, Italian, and the Classics

ALEXANDRIA BOARDING SCROOL, 1
3d mo. 5th, 1802.
This is to certify that Americus Zappone has had charge of the classes in French and Spanish in this Institution for several years past, and has performed his duties faithfully and to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. I consider him decidedly the best teacher that has ever had charge of a class in these languages in my school, possessing the happy faculty of interesting the students in the studies in which they are engaged, which contributes so materially to their progress.

my daughter also took lessons in French from him, very much to her and my own satisfaction. BENJ'N HALLOWELL.

Learning without a Master. Not a few books have been published, proteous reader, that anything within the capacity of the human mind may be learned in the same way? Studying "without a master" is not, of course, to be understood literally. The master is there, but he appears only in the printed page, and not in his bodily presence. We will not say of the schoolmaster, as some ill-mannered critics said of Paul, that "his letters are weighty and powerful, but his bodily presence is weak." The reverse of this is commonly true, as was often most satisfactorily demonstrated to us, in our jacket-and-trowser days, when the whole subject was ably ex-pounded, and "illustrated with numerous cuts." But, while admitting the force there is in a living and active presence; before the student, it is a question whether there is not in some minds a tendency to lear the supply whether the student and active presence. and active presence, before the student, it is a question whether there is not in some minds a tendency to lean too much upon schools and teachers, in the work of education. Far be it from us to utter a word in disparagement of the work of the instructor of youth. This right teachers, in the work of education.

saying that they be no gods which are made with the work of the instructor of youth. This right bands.' The uproar soon died away, the great biands, as well as the image which fell down from the work of the instructor of youth. would almost refuse to obey the impulse which guides it, sooner than record an unjust word concerning those who are engaged in this good work. But it is no disparagement of the teacher or the school, to say that they are not indispensable to the student. They are invaluable helps, it is true; but since all cannot enjoy their aid, it is consoling to know that many have become wise without them. James Furguson, the celebrated Scotch astronomer, learned to read without an instructer, and mastered the elements of his favorite science, while a shepherd's boy, watching his flocks in the fields by night. Sir Wm. Phipps, a former Governor of our own State, learned to read and write after entering upon his eighteenth year, and while serving an apprenticeship to a ship-carpenter in Boston. Thousands of similar instances might be adduced, were it necessary, to show that education does not depend upon teachers and schools. President Hopkins has wisely observed, that every man who is educated at all. is, and must be, self-educated. Daniel Webster uttered the same truth, when he said, "The Creator has so constituted the human intellect. that it can only grow by its own action, and by its own action it will certainly and necessarily grow. Every man must therefore educate himself. His books and teachers are but helps the work is his." This sentiment should be impressed upon the mind of every youth who has been denied the advantages of the school-room. True, he is deprived of a valuable assistant but let him not give up all attempts at mental culture, on this account.

As the "winter schools" are now closing. probably we address many young lads and lasses who have just enjoyed their last "schooling," and who will receive no farther assistance in their studies but such as is common to all. We have a word to whisper in the ear of all such. Young friends, don't stow your books away in the garret, nor consign your studies to oblivion, because you are no longer subject to the constraints of the school-room. Your education is not finished-it is but begun. You will soon forget much of the knowledge you have so laboriously acquired during the win-ter, unless you occasionally recur to your books. The mind is like a polished piece of metal—a little rubbing every day will keep it in good order, but if long neglected, it is difficult to "put on the shine" again. By keeping up our studies at home, you will not only retain the ground already won, but he able to make larger advances in knowledge.

man alix you are certainly crazy. We are going to work now, and how do you suppose we can day in ploughing, digging, teaming, cooking, mending old clothes, &c. ?" We will tell you how: Improve those leisure moments and fragments of time in "rubbing up" the mind, which too many waste in lounging about the streets, or in idle tattle, foolery, or sleep, at home. These spare moments are grains of precious gold dust, and should be treasured with watchful care. They have performed wonders for others, and will do so for you, if you give them a chance. Dr. John Mason Good composed his long and elaborate poetical translation of Lucretius in the streets of London, while passing from one patient to another. Dr. Burney, the distinguished musician, learned the Italian and French languages on horseback, while riding from place to place to give his professional instructions. William Hutton, a well-known English writer, went to work in a silk mill at the age of seven, and remained till he was fourteen, and afterwards served an apprenticeship to a stocking-weaver; but he found leisure to educate himself, and became a prolific writer. Wm. Cobbett learned grammar when he was "a private soldier on six-pence a day," amid the "talking, singing, whistling, and bawling, of at least half a score of the most thoughtless of men;" and yet he became a vigorous and pure writer. Hugh Miller, who is equally eminent as a geologist and a writer, was a stone mason, not many years ago; and he would have been laboring in the same useful but humble capacity to-day, instead of delighting thousands of readers in this and the old world with the instructive productions of his pen, but for a diligent improvement of his leisure moments. Think of these examples, you whose evenings are now spent on store boxes, or at the corners of the streets, or in listless idleness at home. Think whether it would not be better for you to devote these spare hours to intellectual culture, and thus enlarge the sphere of your influence in the world, as well as augment the measure of your own enjoyment. Now is the time to decide the question; and remember, that indecision is a wrong decision.—N. E. Farmer.

PRAISEWORTHY LIBERALITY.-We have just neard of an act of practical kindness on the part of one of our life insurance companies which, in these times of mere selfishness and expediency, merits more than a passing notice. We learn that one of the insured in the "Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company," No. 11 Wall street, contrary to the requirements of his policy, and with out protecting it by what is termed a "sea risk," proceeded on a voyage to Europe; while at sea, under the influence of insanity, he leaped overboard and was drowned. Under any and all circumstances, suicide vitiates a policy of life insurance; in this instance, however, the company viewed the matter through a benevolent medium, and paid to the dead man's widow and his two orphan children the full amount of $2,000, for which the husband and father had insured. This act of good was performed by the company cheerfully and promptly, and they deserve credit for such generosity.—N. Y. Tribune. The Temperance Battle in New York.

The Sun, as the champion of the Maine law, is having an awful battlewith the opponents of that law; and the latter are about to start a new fessing to induct the student into the mysteries of various languages and sciences, "without a strikes home, and is likely to do execution among master." Did it ever occur to you, most courthe liquorites! It says the motto of the new the liquorites! It says the motto of the new paper should be, "Drunkenness is a virtue, rum the poor man's greatest blessing, and the rumsuller his best friend;" and that its leading articles should be headed, "The grog-shop, the safest savings bank;" "The bar-room, the surest road to happiness;" "Brandy the best family medicine," &c.

The Sun adds "The present agitation among the liquor dealers reminds us of an occurrence that took place in the ancient city of Ephesus some 1800 years ago, in which a certain Demetrius, a silversmith, figured conspicuously. Demetrius and his fellowcraftsmen got greatly concerned for the worship Jupiter disappeared, and silversmiths were obliged manufacture other wares than 'shrines!' but Paul's doctrine—'that they be no gods which are made with hands,' has continued to turn away much people from the worship of false gods until the present day. So of the temperance doctrine. It will continue to turn much people away from the rum-shops, though sellers thereof imitate the silver-smiths of Ephesus, and get up a two-hours shouting for the great Diana of New York." From the Tribune we learn that at a large meeting of "Cogniacs," at French's, the project of starting a journal devoted expressly to their interest was considered and heartily approved. It was stated that $50,000 of the $100,000 required to put the organ on a sure basis had already been subscribed. They further determined that the Tribune and every other ournal supporting the Maine law should be proscribed to the extent of their influence, while sundry importers, wine merchants, grocers, railcoad directors, lawyers, &c., pledged themselves to do all in their power to divert advertising from the "fanatical," "blue-law" press. They further resolved to diminish the salaries of all clergymen who favor the Maine law.

The True Course.

The Richmond Whig of a recent date proesses entire confidence in General Scott, and says that, having this confidence, it does not desire any pledges from him, and will be very happy, if he is the Whig candidate, to see him eceive the votes of Freesoilers and everybody ise. Even the vote of the editor of the Richmond Inquirer will be received with thanks, and no questions asked! The Whig does not fear that his vote would taint the General with Democracy, any more than the Freesoil vote would make him Freesoiler. "Satisfied with the soundness of our candidate," the Whig says, "we wish him to get as many votes as possible. To use a piscatorial figure, everything will be fish that comes into our net." General Scott is a great soldier: therefore he cannot be a great civilian! This is the language of unthinking men who do not know him. He is both, and his country will ere long acknowledge this fact !

BANK NOTE PESTILENCE.—The Cincinnati Enquirer, in noticing the statement of Dr. Buckler, f that city, that smallpox is often communicated by means of small notes, says:

"The teller of one of the banks of Columbus. an estimable young man, contracted the disease by handling a batch of bills which had been ransmitted from this city, where the smallpox was then quite prevalent, and in malignant form The young man died; and, by such a seemingly parmiess channel of communication, was that loathsome pestilence the cause of a family losing their main stay in life."
